| It's time to reflect and celebrate everything live streaming in the past year!

This community of ours has made its mark on the world in 2024. New platforms joining the game, global communities influencing one another, streamers becoming taste makers for new games and brands - even shaping political discussions! Let's look back at some of the tectonic shifts that have totally changed the landscape of live streaming.

It's dangerous to go alone - take this! The examples included aren't necessarily indicative of the biggest streamers or events in their category. Save Point 2024 showcases notable events in live streaming that appealed to new audiences and captured people's attention.

Psst! Keep in mind that all "yearly" data covers January to November only (unless we say otherwise!).

TOP KICK CREATORS IN 2024 (HOURS WATCHED)

Two years since its launch, Kick has kicked it up a notch with another tremendous year of growth. Kick nearly tripled its yearly viewership in 2024 (+176%) with 1.7B hours watched.

Mainstays of the Kick streaming scene like WestCOL, Adin Ross, and n3on all drummed up over 50M hours watched each. Adin Ross invited U.S. president-elect Donald Trump to join him live on stream, but it was WestCOL that brought in the single biggest audience - 1.4M concurrent viewers - with his Stream Fighters 3 boxing event in Colombia.

Streamers from Latin America are jumping on the Kick bandwagon: Spanish-speaking viewership improved from 56M hours watched last year to 364M this year - that's just over 20% of the platform's entire viewership!

New Platforms

2024 saw the debut of HEAPS of new live-streaming platforms. Twitch's shutdown in Korea led to the launch of Chzzk and the rebranding of AfreecaTV into SOOP Korea and SOOP (for global audiences).

Chzzk had an incredible debut, nearly doubling its February hours watched of 43M to 84M by November! Chzzk and SOOP Korea's most watched games were League of Legends, Minecraft, and MMO Lost Ark.

As SOOP reached global audiences, it saw roughly 1.5M monthly hours watched thanks to games like Grand Theft Auto V and VALORANT.

Stream Hatchet also started tracking BIGO Live, a gamified live-streaming platform popular in South East Asia and Latin America featuring IRL content and mobile games like Garena Free Fire.

Popular streamers using this simulcasting strategy see big jumps in their performance. Take Ninja, for example: His average concurrent viewership rises by 148% when he’s simulcasting on Twitch and YouTube. Or how about TheGrefg, with a massive 491% boost when simulcasting!

Given the convenience and reach, its no wonder that streamers are simulcasting more and more. Ninja simulcasts 90% of his content, while Vegetta777 almost exclusively simulcasts (99.7%).

Monthly Hours Watched During 2024 on Kai Cenat's Channel

The undisputed streaming champion of 2024 by sheer viewership has to be Kai Cenat, pulling in 185M hours watched in 2024 - that's 77M more hours watched than in 2023.

Marathons were Kai Cenat's bread and butter this year, with huge peak viewerships from both his gaming marathons, like Elden Ring: Shadow of the Erdtree (286K), and his IRL marathons, like the mega-popular Mafiathon 2 (623K).

Kai Cenat is quickly gaining celebrity status, commanding big name collaborations with stars like Serena Williams, Snoop Dogg, and Kevin Hart - the latter helping Kai Cenat bring in his highest peak viewership for the year at 673K!
